EUPIN rises up against exclusion and discrimination and takes a stand for solidarity and equity in Europe.

Actors from the fields of education and culture exchange ideas and learning methods that promote creativity and self-expression and support particularly marginalized groups in their self-determination.

The two-year European cooperation focuses on educational and therapeutic work with people who are disadvantaged by their origin, age, gender, physical or mental condition. The project is based on the "European anti-poverty program", which is directed against increasing poverty in Europe.
